ITALY.

The Prominent Statesmen and Generals of the New Kingdom

The recent revelations and recriminations touching Prussia made in the Florence Parliament by Gen. della Marmora have been interpreted not only as a symptom of approaching war on the Continent, but as signifying that the army of Italy has already been secured by the French Emperor to assist in carrying out his projects. However this may be, the revelations referred to have attained such notoriety as to justify a glance into the record of present Italian notabilities.

Alfonso della Marmora, the most conspicuous Italian since Cavour, is a Piedmontese by birth, of noble family and over sixty years of age. He was reared in the Academia Militaire of Turin and entered the army of Carlo Alberto as lieutenant of cavalry. At the disastrous battle of Novara, in 1849, which forced the abdication of that sovereign and crushed to the ground Italian aspirations, La Marmora acquired the reputation that he has steadily borne ever since—that of a brave and stubborn, but incompetent fighter. Notwithstanding this incompetency, so unmistakably displayed, he was enabled not only to retain his position in the army under the succeeding King, Victor Emanuel II, but to rise by dint of unequalled courage and energy to the military and political eminence he has reached of late years. Cavour knew well his defects, yet he could do no better than to lift him up into chief command as War Minister in his Cabinet, and make him the armed representative of the "Italian question" in the face of Europe. Accordingly he was sent with fifteen thousand troops to the Crimea, where he was enabled to acquit himself passably well, owing to the very slight part he took in the proceedings against the Russians. During the campaign of 1859 he was reduced to the status of an automaton, nominally commanding the Italian wing of the allied army. Marshal Neil and Napoleon III were too well acquainted with the Italianissimo General to allow him any real control over his sixty thousand men on such an important field as that of Solferino. After Villafranca, La Marmora reappeared prominently in 1866, both as Prime Minister and Generalissimo of Italy. In the beginning of that year he formed the alliance with Prussia to expel the Austrians from Venetia; and, in accordance therewith, a plan of campaign was forwarded to him from Berlin for the guidance of the Italian army. Bismarck, it seems, also believes in automatons. But La Marmora, thus rudely wounded in his own conceit, disregarded Moltke's plan, blundered headlong into the very heart of the Quadrilateral and allowed the Austrians to inclose him in their steel trap at their leisure. Consequently, while the battle of Custozza exhibited an improvement in fighting on the part of the Italian soldiers, it only proved once again the military incapacity of their old martinet commander. Since then La Marmora has been diligently engaged in explaining away his defeat; and his recent revelations in regard to the plan, policy and general treatment inflicted on him by Bismarck appear to have been a soothing balm unto himself and his compatriots. He has always been a warm partisan of the French alliance, or rather a tool of the French Emperor. In politics La Marmora was early forced to join the liberal school of Cavour, who taught him the most liberal principles with regard to the rights of property and person as illustrated by the noble count's famous ejectment of the priests, monks and nuns from their churches and convents in 1854-55. It is not strange, therefore, that he should be a devout believer in brute force, militarily disciplined and applied to the execution of "liberal principles" on a like scale. One of his favorite pastimes when organizing the Sardinian army consisted in occupying himself in the pettiest and most insignificant details of the service; parading the Sardinians in the streets one day arrayed in a certain set of coat buttons, a certain formal cut of beard, and in certain uniform colors, and then reversing or altering the display the very day after. Such amusing experiments in the steps to attain a finality or ideal of uniform for King Victor's troops would last for weeks—aye, for months—at a time; but never at any time did the grave and busy La Marmora pay attention to the satirical cuts and jokes of the Fischietto. He is by no means popular with the Italians; yet, though he is now reduced to a simple deputy's seat in Parliament, it is not unlikely he will again loom up in the highest military and political position as the protege of Louis Napoleon. He is especially notorious for looking downwards upon Garibaldi & Co., snubbing downright all "volunteers." Regular troops are his pets. In his estimation of the regular army—which he claims to have created—he carries the well known Italian sensitiveness and touchiness to an absurd degree; hence the superiority so marked of the French officers and soldiers over his army in 1859, and upon the plains of Lombardy, aroused his jealousies to the flaming point. What between the latter and the charge of ingratitude cast into their teeth from France, "the Frenchman" is almost as odious to-day among the Italians as was only lately "the German." The scale may possibly slightly incline towards il Francese because il Tedesco was out of all conscience too brutal; still the Italians vociferously decline all bonds of obligation to any nation whatsoever, on the ground that a great nation of the first water cannot permit or accept dictation from "the foreigner." They claim that the new kingdom, according to the Italia-fara da-se doctrine of Carlo Alberto can and will suffice unto itself. Just as loudly on the other side do the French constantly assert their utter inability to understand why their Emperor sacrificed their blood and treasure for such vagabonds and vauriens as "those Italians!" So runs the little quarrel in the great Latin family. It remains for the Emperor to explain the why. Perhaps he may some day.

Not so notorious a warrior as LaMarmora, but a far more competent and successful one, is Gen. Enrico Cialdini. This latter General, long before the wars of 1859-'60-'66, had actively served in the armies of foreign governments, and had received high rewards for his gallantry in battle. His list of decorations, greatly augmented of late years, is endless, and his gala uniform displays an unequaled number of medals, grand crosses, ribbons, etc. During the campaign of 1859, and especially at the battle of Palestro, he distinguished himself over all the other Italian Generals. But his greatest achievement, the one which spread his fame extensively, was his defeat, in 1860, of the Pope's army under Lamoriciere. To defeat not only a Pope's army, but at the same time the most renowned and able French General of the day, elevated him to the highest pinnacle in the eyes of his countrymen, while it secured him eternal damnation from Pius IX. Of course he went up high on the list of excommunicated, and fulminated along with King Vittorio and Count Cavour. It must be recollected in fairness to the just fame of Lamoriciere, that Cialdini possessed all the advantage of superior numbers and morale at the battle of Castelfidardo. Since that day he has occupied the position of First Corps Commander in the army. He is very much liked both by the citizens and soldiers, on account of rare energy and ability, joined to the most sterling patriotism. He is yet in his prime.

The other Italian generals, of the subordinate division commanders, have only a local reputation, and are not deserving of mention beyond the fact that they were formerly Garibaldi's lieutenants in Bomba days when he waged war on his own hook. To-day most of the officers of the Italian army are from Piedmont, the old province that has always manifested the military spirit and is now the nucleus around which conscription has gathered the swarthy Tuscans and the dark-hued Neapolitans. But while the Piedmontese officers have given to new Italy their military spirit and education, they have also contributed all the brutality of discipline copied from the Austrian system and all the narrow-mindedness which so distinguish them. The consequence is, that a cry of complaint has arisen in the rest of the army from among officers and men that there has been inflicted on them too much of "Piedmontese." The effects of the arrogant system introduced by the superior Piedmontese of the old army are visible to the extent of having destroyed that affection, admiration and confidence which are necessary between the various members of an army and which so notably exist in the French service. Besides this great drawback, the Italian forces are deficient in all equipments—in arms, uniforms and rations; no Chasse pote or any other luxuries for them while the treasury at Florence remains so empty. It is estimated that in case of war to-day Italy could not put into action and efficient service a larger force than little Sardinia did, although the army now numbers over two hundred thousand men.

As regards the Italian navy, it is entirely lacking in material and men. The maritime organization existing in 1866 was squelched in the combat at Lissa by the mismanagement of the celebrated Admiral Persano—celebrated for having been court martialed on account of that defeat.

Gen. Menabrea, the actual premier of the Cabinet, has always proven himself a very shallow statesman, and is regarded by his countrymen as entirely unfitted for such an important office. He was nothing under Cavour, although a genuine Piedmontese and a mathematician of some note. He fills high functions today solely because he is shown to be a mere instrument in the hands of La Marmora, and, through the latter, of Napoleon III.

On the other hand Urbino Ratazzi, another Piedmontese—all the honorable men of Italy are now from one province—and the leader of the opposition, is really a capable man and the only statesman which the country of Cavour can now boast. Ratazzi left the Premiership not long since because he wished to throw himself into opposition to Louis Napoleon. He now leans towards an alliance with Prussia, goes in for the party of action headed by Mazzini and Garibaldi, and hereby hangs a tale. All the Italian statesmen have over and over again avowed that their country is naturally and forcibly interested in maintaining the good wishes and the alliance of France. To understand, therefore, the singular opposition moved by Signor Ratazzi, it must be borne in mind that he has been constituted a mere instrument of attack against the empire by means of the superior will and skill of a woman, and that woman no other than his wife. This lady, though a cousin of the French potentate, was banished by him from Paris at the time of the coup d'etat. From that date she has continually kept up a guerre de femme against the Tuileries and has never ceased to enlist on her side of the arena all whom she could muster. She has emphatically enlisted her husband, Signor Ratazzi, who is a very stout opponent, and, whether on that account or otherwise, it is true that she never hesitates to express her confident belief and knowledge that poor Victor Emanuel is a born blockhead and that fair Italy will soon be a republic.

TO THE ORIENT.

Cost of the Darien Ship Canal—Results of its Completion.

American enterprise has at last taken the initiatory steps for the construction of a ship canal across the Isthmus of Darien. A number of leading capitalists in our city have formed themselves into a company for the construction of the work, and the books for subscriptions of capital will be opened in a few days. The estimated cost of the work will be $100,000,000, and the proposed capital of the company is fixed at that sum.

The utility and advantages to American commerce of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans at the narrowest point of the American continent, is a subject that is familiar to our readers. This journal has already demonstrated the importance of the work, and the necessity for its construction if the people of the United States desire to retain the commercial rank in the family of nations. Recent events fully confirm this view. In a short time the Suez canal will be opened, and Eastern commerce will then drift into the new channel. To European nations the advantages will be immediate and obvious, and even to the United States there would be a considerable though a lesser saving of time and expenses of transportation. But Americans, by the geographical position of their continent have the means of securing a shorter, better and more direct route to the East, and one that will achieve for them even larger results that Europeans can hope to gain from the grand work which so rapidly approaches completion, under the energy of M. de Lesseps, and the French Government.

The route between Panama and Aspinwall bays, which was formerly the favorite one for the construction of a canal, has been found to offer inferior advantages to those that can be obtained at Darien. The neck of land at the narrowest point of indentation is only thirty-four miles. On the Pacific side the coast deflection forms a natural bay that can be improved at comparatively slight expense into a spacious harbor. Then again, the Darien line is eleven miles shorter than the Panama route, and presents fewer natural obstacles. Nature has almost anticipated the work of man. A small cutting has rendered the rivers Atrate and San Juan, which flow into either ocean, navigable for small boats. These rivers present the advantages of head waters, available during the entire year for the canal. It has been estimated that a canal on this route one hundred and fifty feet wide at the bottom, sloping to a surface width of two hundred and seventy feet, and thirty-one feet deep, can be constructed at a cost inside the proposed capital of $100,000,000 of the new company. Estimates have been formed much lower than this amount, some of them falling as low as $30,000,000, but they are not reliable. The country certainly possesses vastly superior advantages than occurred in the construction of the Suez canal, but the experience warns us against placing original estimates of this kind too low.

The completion of the Darien canal by the New York merchants and capitalists, who have initiated it would be worthy the future destiny of the Empire City. In connection with our Pacific Railroad, it would divert the commerce of the East—which makes and unmakes nations—to our country, and in due time make New York the chief commercial city in the world. It would relieve our commerce from the condition of vassalage to the Old World, and be the means of extending the influence of the United States over the entire continent south of the Rio Grande. That the work will be vastly profitable, there can be no doubt. The South American States, in spite of their intestine commotions, are making rapid strides in an industrial point of view. They are developing their natural resources with an energy that promises the largest results. Even in Peru—almost desolated by the recent earthquake—a track is being laid for the "iron horse" from the coast to the city of Ariquipa, a distance of over one hundred miles—and at an elevation of 7250 feet above the level of the sea. In the other Southern American States, railroad enterprise is exercising an immense influence in developing their resources. As these Pacific States grow in wealth and importance, the want of a shorter route to the Atlantic will be rendered more apparent, and it is probable that before a couple of decades shall have passed away, the mere commerce of the Pacific coast alone, without the Eastern trade, would almost engross the proposed canal. The necessities of civilization may require not one Pacific Railroad, but many; and the construction of an additional canal—beside that of Darien—on the Panama and Aspinwall route.

INDIA.

Another Famine Threatens the Natives.

The London Times contains a letter from Calcutta under date of September 11, in which the writer announces the probability of another famine in various parts of India, owing to the failure of the rice crops. He says:

"Famine once more threatens Northern India, especially all those provinces to which alone the term Hindostan is correctly applied. There was hardly any hot weather, in the Indian sense, in May and June last. Again in July and August the heavens were opened with the most disastrous results in all the coast districts, east and west, on which the monsoon bursts. Orissa was swept; the other districts between Calcutta and the sea are still four feet under water; even more distant, Tirhoot was deluged. The rice crops rotted; those sown a second time are now rotting before my eyes. But in Bengal the crop of the year comes later, as we have two good reasons to know since 1866. On the rainfall this month and half of next depend the fate of the cold season crops and the lives of thousands. Now Bengal has already had much more than its whole year's supply. No less than seventy-eight inches have fallen at Calcutta, or eleven more than the annual average, against fifty-three in the same time last year.

"Nor has Western India escaped the deluge. At this time last month it inundated Guzerat. Ahmedabad, Kaira, Kurat, and the other great old cities there have been desolated. The news of a calamity which would in Europe have called forth the lamentation of nations, in India takes three weeks to travel across the continent. Houses have fallen down by tens of thousands, and lives, both European and native, have been lost, while railway bridges have been washed away.

"At this moment the sixty millions of human beings who live by the land between the Indus on the north, the Chumbul, if not Nerbudda, on the south, and the Dammoodah in the far east, are praying for rain in mosque and temple, through priest and idol. The Lahore and Loodana districts of the Punjab have the Baree Dooab canal or the Indus, but flour (atta) is at ten pound a shilling, and in the depth of the last famine it rarely reached seven pound.

"In Lower Bengal the crops have suffered from too much rain, and up in Behar they are suffering from too little. Rice that used to sell at thirty seers for a rupee (thirty pounds a shilling) is selling at twenty, and going up higher every day. If there should be no rain this month nothing can prevent a famine."

FOREIGN ITEMS.

—The manager of the Independence Belge receives a salary of fifty thousand francs. His paper receives more communications from soreheads at the continental courts than any other journal in Europe. The Independence lately tried to have all its Paris correspondence telegraphed to Brussels; but it had to desist, several of its most valued Parisian contributors refusing to correspond in that manner, and thereby informing the Government of their names. The circulation of the Independence Belge, in Paris, is larger than that of any Government paper, except the Patrie.

—At the Alcazar coffee-house, two pretty little girls five and six years old, appear every night and delight the customers by their clever performances on the violin. Villemot, of the Temps, recently, was present, and says: "I was indescribably saddened by this sight. It was eleven o'clock at night. The hall was filled to suffocation. The atmosphere was reeking with tobacco and alcohol, and on the stage two sweet little angels playing on violins, with hands scarcely large enough to hold the bow. Poor little girls. Instead of standing in the midst of that pandemonium, they should have been in bed, dreaming the innocent dreams of childhood. What stony-hearted mother can expose her little daughters to such a fate?"

—There is now in Paris a movement on foot for the purpose of breaking down the constantly increasing influence of the women of the demi-monde. A society of ladies, to be called "The league of honest women," is to be organized. The members of this league pledge themselves not to patronize any establishments where the demi-monde is known to deal; not to rent any boxes at theaters to which the demi monde is admitted; not to ape the costumes introduced by the demi monde; not to invite to their soirees any gentlemen who are known to keep mistresses, etc. Old Dupin suggested something of the kind four years ago. Very influential authors, artists, politicians, etc., now favor the formation of such a league.

—The managers of the Gaulois assert that they cleared one hundred thousand francs during the first two months of the existence of their paper. If this statement is true, the Gaulois would be more profitable than any other Parisian journal. Its canards about the Spanish revolution were decidedly successful, kept the Parisians for two weeks in a constant state of excitement. It is believed in Paris that the paper did not receive a single dispatch from Spain during the whole progress of the revolution, and that all the pretended telegrams which it published were written by the managing editor, Henri de Pene, who was hitherto famous in Paris for starting sensational stories about certain women of the demi-monde.

—Among the papers laid before the British Parliament at the close of its last session were copies of a correspondence between the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Marlborough, as Lord President of the Privy Council, which contained the proof that the Royal Imperial guests of the French sovereign did not confine themselves solely to viewing the sights of the Exposition and enjoying the agremens of Paris. It appears that an engagement was entered into by twelve Princes, representing as many different States, by the terms of which each of the signers pledged himself to use his influence to inaugurate in his own country a system of reproduction of valuable works of art similar to that so successfully carried on under the auspices of the Department of Science and Art at the South Kensington Museum, and to establish in addition a regular international exchange of the works thus to be reproduced. The agreement was signed by the Prince of Wales, Prince Napoleon, the Crown Prince of Prussia, the Czarovitch, Prince Oscar, of Sweden, the two brothers of the Emperor of Austria, the Princess Royal of Italy and Saxony, the brother of the King of Belgium, the Crown Prince of Holland and Prince Louis of Hessee—all on behalf of the several reigning houses to which they belonged.

—The following is the text of the decree of the new Spanish Government for the banishment of the Jesuits:

MADRID, October 12.—I decree the suppression throughout the peninsula and the adjacent islands of the regular order called Company of Jesus. All the colleges and training schools for priests shall be closed in three days, and the temporalities taken possession of by persons appointed by the authorities of the provinces in which these establishments are situated. In this latter measure will be included all the property and effects of the order, movable and immovable, buildings and revenues, which shall form part of the national wealth, in conformity with the provision of the royal decree of the Fourth July, 1835. The members of the company shall no longer be able to meet as a body or a community, to wear the dress of the order, nor to be in any way answerable to the superiors of the body existing in or out of Spain. Those not ordained as priests shall remain entirely subjected to ordinary civil jurisdiction. I charge the archbishops, bishops, and all those who exercise ecclesiastical or civil authority, to aid, each in what concerns him, the faithful execution of the present enactment, in conformity with the Pragmatic Sanction of the 2d April, 1767, and the Brief of his Holiness of the 21st July, 1773.

ANTONIO ROMERO ORTIZ,
Minister of Grace and Justice.

—The peculiar barking cry of the Cape baboon frequently hailed us as we passed along, but these animals do not care to show themselves if they can avoid it. They are, if left alone, timid and harmless creatures, but when wounded and at bay, know how to use their hands and teeth. They will combine on emergencies against a common enemy, as in the case of the Cape tiger. This tiger is particularly fond of young baboon, but it must be very young to suit his teeth. To get it he will lie in wait for days together on the mountains, and often succeeds in snatching a youngster almost out of its mother's arms. The distracted mother, with piercing shrieks, then lays her case before the council of her people, who, if the tiger has not made his escape, fall on him in a body and invariably succeed in killing him. The battle field is recognized by bones and pieces of skin of both tiger and baboon; not more, for the survivors of this forlorn hope make a clean sweep of everything digestible, devouring not only their enemy, but also those of their own kindred whom the tiger has killed in the conflict. I remember being roused one night at a place some way inland, by the most unearthly shrieks, mingled with the roar of a large animal in rage and pain. It was explained to me next morning that what I heard was the tumult usually produced on occasions of monkey-stealing, and that probably the tiger had been caught red-handed and received lynch law.

—The Hawaiian Gazette, of August 10th, says: We have news from Hezlakekua up to the 15th inst., and from Hilo to the 14th, by the Kona packet and the Annie. No eruption has yet made its appearance in the Kau district, although a light was seen on Thursday night, on the top of Mauna Loa, and it is believed that an eruption has taken place on or near Pohakubanalei. The light ceased to show itself on Friday. In Kapapala and Wiohinu the earth seems almost in constant motion, and noises are heard as though the lava in motion below was surging against the thin crust above. All the phenomena are similar to those which preceded the eruption at Kahuku, April 7, and is likely will burst out again, perhaps this time in the neighborhood of Kapapala, and another torrent of lava discharged into the sea. Pointing to this is the fact that the fire at Filanea has again disappeared. The south lake, after filling up has cooled so that it can be passed over on foot. The inhabitants of Kau, apprehensive of danger, and tired of the continuous earth movement, are leaving the district for safer ground until the volcano shall have either emptied itself or subsided to a safe repose.

THE NEWS.

The Tampa Peninsular of the 17th ult. says the sugar crops of South Florida are very promising and the largest ever raised.

The Thomasville (Fla.) Enterprise announces that bids for the grading of the South Georgia and Florida road, were opened in that city on the 20th ult.

The Tampa (Fla.) Peninsular says the Seminole Indians are about to leave Big Cypress and go to Lake Okeechobie where it is more healthy.

The Apalachicola (Fla.) Reporter is about to suspend. Cause—"Stringency of the times." The Reporter is now gotten out by a twelve year old boy.

The Sun states that there are eighty-six savings banks in New York State, with about $180,000,000; two-thirds being vested in Government bonds, and one-half held in the city of New York.

Mr. Edwin Forrest signed a check in New York on Thursday, for $65,000, in favor of Mrs. Catherine Sinclair, his former wife, the proceeds in part of the old divorce judgment in her favor.

Nine young men who left Rome on their velocipedes at seven in the morning reached Paris at nine in the evening. They performed the distance of thirty-two leagues in eleven hours, having rested three hours during the day.

The Gainesville (Fla.) New Era tells an amusing story about a carpet-bagger's adventure, near that town, with an animal of the "genus" cat, commonly known as "skunk." The fellow wished a "plaything" for his children, and caught one. He didn't carry it home.

A gentleman who was recently at Knoxville, and who had an interview with Gov. Brownlow, says the latter is so extremely feeble as to forcibly suggest the idea of his early decease. He is barely able to talk, and is totally inadequate to the task of walking. The gentleman avers that the Governor will never be able to start for Washington.

Medicine Wolf, a Cheyenne chief, who was killed a few weeks ago in Western Kansas, had forty scalps, which he wore for a neck-lace. All were those of white people; some taken from gray-headed men and women, and some from very small children. A piece of the chief's own scalp is to be made into a vest-chain for one of the party who killed him.

Dr. Stone, the sculptor, now in Rome, has shipped for Washington, in a Government vessel, the statue of Alexander Hamilton, which he has executed by order of Congress for the vacant niche on the landing of one of the grand staircases. The niches on the other staircase landings are occupied already by statues of Franklin, Jefferson and Hancock.

The total value of property in San Francisco, as given from the assessment roll for the current year, is $104,6?3,281; real estate $63,578,179, and personal property, $41,?27,202. The assessment roll for the current year in that city shows a total value of property amounting to $230,247,000; real estate, $175,490,660; personal property, $55,756,340.

The Nashville Press and Times of Thursday says: "The young man Kits, who pleaded guilty in the Federal Court yesterday to the charge of having forged $67,000 in vouchers on the Government, was a fast fellow around here during the war. He was, in the beginning, a Captain, or something of the sort, in an Illinois regiment, but rapidly degenerated into a swindler, left his regiment and, instead of defending the flag on the field of fame, went into a swindling business in which he made such progress that—he goes to the penitentiary to-day.

The Washington politicians are already busy on the future Cabinet. They, of course, know nothing, as coming from the President elect, but they make up their stories on the political pressure which has been gradually forming in that direction ever since the October election. The New York crowd here, known as original Grant men, and representing A. T. Stewart, Pierrepont & Co, unite on John J. Cisco, of New York, for Secretary of the Treasury, Motley for Secretary of State, Sanford for Secretary of War, and Admiral Porter for Secretary of the Navy. The Pacific Coast politicians are going to demand the Secretaryship of the Interior. The Illinois men say that the first commission Grant issues will be to Washburne, as Minister to Berlin, thus following up Lincoln's example in the case of Judd. Such are, at least, specimens of the surface-talk and gossip among the Washington officials and politicians.

SMITH TO CONTEST DR. LEFTWICH'S SEAT IN CONGRESS.

Notwithstanding the SMITH party had the registration of voters in their own hands, and that it is notorious that hundreds upon hundreds of Democrats, who were under the law entitled to certificates, were by various devices deprived of them, while thousands of Radical negroes of Mississippi and Arkansas were granted them; and although the Judges, Clerks and Deputy Commissioners were all of their selection, and with a few honorable exceptions their most pliant tools, our standard-bearer, JOHN W. LEFTWICH, has triumphed by a handsome majority, to the delight of all decent men of both parties.

It is now said that SMITH will contest the election, and it is the wish of Dr. LEFTWICH that he will, as we learn it will be his first purpose to appeal to Congress to "guarantee to Tennessee a Republican form of government," and he thinks that the testimony to be elicited in a contest of this nature would be an unanswerable argument in its behalf. This looks like business, and we feel assured that our Representative will enter on his duties, with a full appreciation of its duties and responsibilities.

PRICE OF THE APPEAL REDUCED.

Hereafter we will furnish, to regular subscribers, the DAILY APPEAL at $10 per annum, and the mammoth WEEKLY APPEAL (the oldest paper in the Southwest) at $2 50 per annum. Mindful of the demand for cheap newspapers, and determined that the public of this region shall have no excuse for an exclusive patronizing of journals published in other cities, we make a reduction that renders our daily and weekly issues as cheap as any papers published in the country.

Of the WEEKLY APPEAL we can confidently assert that at $2 50 a year it is the cheapest paper published in the North as well as South. In size the sheet is 33 by 52 inches, comprising 40 columns of reading matter, embracing literary selections, poetry, all the news of the day, telegraphic and local reports, and commercial and river reports. We challenge the press of the United States to produce a cheaper paper at this price; and yet those subscribing in clubs of two or more may enjoy it at $2 per annum. Now is the time to subscribe. Those subscribers whose terms of subscription have expired should renew at once. Postmasters acting as agents will be allowed the usual discount of 10 per cent. on single subscriptions. Send in your names gentlemen.

THE RESULT IN TENNESSEE.

Time, which proves all things, is beginning already to show us in Tennessee, that while we have not been as successful as we had hoped or labored for, yet we have made such gains throughout the State as indicate our triumph within the next four years, perhaps within the next year, if we are only true to our principles and contend manfully for them. We have beyond doubt elected two Congressmen (SCHEAFE in the Fourth and LEFTWICH in this, the Eighth District) and have reduced BROWNLOW's majority of last year fully one-half. Nothing short of complete victory could be more encouraging than this result in the face of obstacles greater than have been encountered in any other State in the Union. A majority of the negro element, indeed the whole of it, was arrayed against us; the Registrars were nearly all of them of the Radical party and of Radical appointment; BROWNLOW, at pleasure, annulled the registration of whole counties; and frauds of every conceivable character were perpetrated in order to insure Radical triumph. And yet, by a vigorous effort, made under the most feeble of party organizations, with the confusing doctrine of "negro suffrage" forced upon the party by the Central Committee and against the known majority sentiment of the white men of Tennessee, we have reduced Radicalism to half its strength and added two good men to the Democratic roll in the House of Representatives. What more might have been accomplished had it not been for the other confusion incident to the course of the New York World, which had the effect of breaking the spirit of many, it is useless now to speculate upon. We must be content, that all is not lost, gather the troops into solid column and prepare for future contests under the banner of the "white man's party."

THE MEMPHIS AND SELMA RAILROAD.

On our local page this morning our readers will find the report of Mr. MINOR MERRIWETHER, Engineer in charge of the survey of the above line. It will be found a document of much interest to every reader of the APPEAL, and must command the attention of our business men and capitalists, especially in view of the proposed meeting of the stockholders of this road, at Okolona, Miss., on the 10th inst. It may not be amiss while upon this subject, (to some extent lost sight of during the election,) to say, that the people all along the route are prepared to meet the delegates from our county and city more than half way, with a liberal subscription of money and lands. We count upon the Memphis and Selma Railroad as an accomplished fact.

QUIET.

The Military Department of Texas, Mississippi and Virginia, obedient to military orders, maintained on Tuesday last most profound quiet. The indifference to the result of the election by our fellow-citizens in these once States was as marked as if they were not of the United States and had no part in our destiny. The Reconstruction laws operated under and by virtue of military rule, were for once, in their most arbitrary sense, enforced. Ordered to be quiet, and not, under pain of the displeasure of Congress, to take part in the Presidential election, the people of the grand old mother of States and statesmen, (Virginia) of Texas (the protege of Tennessee) and of Mississippi, were quiet and did not attempt the assertion of the inalienable right of freemen and vote for Presidential Electors. The Louisville Journal says:

> "They were as abject in their obedience as if they had been abjectly obedient all their lives. They didn't even complain. They didn't remonstrate. They kept their tongues manacled in the prison-house of their mouths. Even their editors were almost universally quiescent."

And very properly so, since any embroilment with the military would have deranged their labor, at this time most precious to them, and precipitated consequences that would have been deplorable. The people of these States acted wisely and well, under the circumstances. Their quiescence and condition afford no occasion for reflections upon them, but only fresh arguments for the perfection of the organization of the Democratic party and a fresh onslaught upon the Radicalism that has reduced them to so abject a state of vassalage.

THE NEXT SPEAKER.

The Louisville Journal, of Thursday speculating upon SCHUYLER COLFAX's successor as Speaker of the House of Representatives, says:

> "Among the gentlemen mentioned as his successor the Hon. James G. Blaine, of Maine, stands more prominent than any other. For some years Mr. Blaine was a resident of Scott county, Ky., and made many friends. In Congress Mr. Blaine has achieved a national reputation. To his efforts is attributable the repeal of the cotton tax. His views are liberal, and, whilst there has been great bitterness between the contending partizans in Congress, the Democrats have always maintained polite intercourse with Mr. Blaine, and probably would be better pleased to see him in the Speaker's chair than any other Republican member. We confess that our partiality is very decidedly against any Radical, but, when there is to be a choice between evils, we hope that the incumbent may be as gentlemanly and courteous as possible, in order that his deportment may somewhat alleviate the heresies of principle."

THE WASHINGTON PRESS ON THE ELECTION.

By a special dispatch to the Cincinnati Commercial of the 4th inst., we get the following synopsis of the opinions of the Washington press upon the result of the Presidential election:

The Intelligencer blames the New York State politicians entirely for the defeat of the Democrats, and threatens to make what it calls some damaging exposures. It declares that the fact that Hoffman even ran ahead of Seymour shows the treachery of the New York managers, and concludes as follows: "We shall not, however, allow this contest, and the defeat of the Democratic party, to pass from the minds of our readers, but shall place upon record such evidences of betrayal of trust as will enable the party represented at the New York Convention to profit by the experience so dearly bought. It was with no disposition to find fault, or to question the sincerity of those who differed with us in the selection of our candidate that we felt called upon to express our want of confidence; but when we witnessed such total, wanton and inexcusable want of capacity for conducting a campaign of this magnitude, we deemed it our duty to expose it."

The Chronicle contains a four column report of one of Forney's speeches, made at midnight, and in its editorials declares that the result of the election is the funeral of slavery and secession.

The Evening Express says that there is but one solemn duty now, and that is for the Democrats to stand by their organization. It maintains that it is the majority party of the country, and is bound yet to control the country.

The Star, Radical, says that the Democrats won't find Grant so bad a President as has been anticipated.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, November 6.—At a meeting of the Union League Club last evening, the naturalization frauds at the late election were discussed, and a resolution offered by Mr. Greeley for the appointment of a committee to take measures to investigate the matter, and requesting John A. Griswald and his associates to contest the election of Hoffman. Mr. Griswald was present, but the inquiry as to whether he would contest the election was rejected by the meeting.

W. H. Kinney, who is said to be worth $250,000, was sentenced by Judge Dowling yesterday to two months' imprisonment in the penitentiary, and to pay a fine of $500 for an unprovoked assault on Judge Allen in a street car.

Judge Dowling yesterday gave notice that he would hereafter hold no official intercourse with Superintendent Kennedy, except through the District Attorney, as he had insulted the Judiciary of the city.

The excitement in Wall street to-day borders on the panic of 1857, and threatens to equal it in scope and disaster. It is creating apprehensions among bankers and brokers, and has caused enormous depreciations in stocks. Railway shares were sold by the thousands and Government bonds by the million. Trade is standing still in all directions.

The excitement in Wall street to-day was intense, and without a precedent in the history of stock exchange. The panic this morning was about as severe as was ever known, and in the evening the buoyancy was greater than any time since the furor for a rise about two weeks since.

The money market opened very stringent—7 per cent. call, with ¼ per cent. commission—but closed easier at 7 per cent. for currency. This was occasioned by the report that the Bear clique had covered their shorts and were letting out money, and that banks were lending more freely, which seems to be authentic. Sterling unsettled, 8½@9¼. Gold opened at 32½, fell to 32, and closed at 33½. Governments were panicky this morning, and prices declined ¾@1¼ per cent., At noon call was of a better feeling, with a recovery of ½@¾ per cent., and later in the evening there was a further advance of ½@¾ per cent., with the market closing active and firm. New Tennessees, 66½.

POUGHKEEPSIE, November 6.—A doubtful report just received here states that Wormold and O'Baldwin fought a battle early on the morning of election day in Putnam county. There were but few people present. Soon after the fight commenced Wormold hit O'Brien a terrible blow, cutting his face open from chin to ear, when O'Baldwin rallied and soon after, by a heavy and well-directed blow, won the fight. The parties then left the field, and procuring a carriage intercepted the night express down train on the Hudson railroad, either at Garrison or Fishkill, where they took passage in the drawingroom car for New York. After the fight was over one of the backers of O'Baldwin got into an altercation and was dealt a blow in the face by Joe Coburn. The greatest vigilance was exercised by the fighters to ward off any suspicions of the fight, and they succeeded well.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, November 6.—In the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, to-day, the case of John H. Surratt came up, the motion being to dismiss him, appealed from the District Attorney to the decision of Judge Wylie, in Criminal Court, sustaining plea of statute of limitation and discharging the prisoner from the court. Judges Carter, Olin and Wylie discussed the appeal on the sustaining of an appeal in a case where judgment had been rendered in the Criminal Court in favor of the defendant. This is the end of the Surratt case.

Total debt, $2 641 002 571 06; amount in Treasury, currency, $10,465 023 47—coin, $103,407,985 77; total, $113,873,-019 24; amount of debt less cash in the treasury, $2,527,129 552 82.

The following order from the War Department has been published:

> "Soldiers may, for certain offenses not strictly military, be sentenced by general court martial to confinement in a penitentiary of any State in a military department that has made provision by law for confinement of prisoners under sentence by court martial by the United States. The department commander may designate such penitentiary confinement; but if no provision has been made by any State in the Department, the record will be forwarded to the Secretary of War for designation of a prison. The authority which has designated the place of confinement, or higher authority can change the place of confinement or mitigate the sentence of confinement. The same rules apply to prisoners sentenced by military commissions, so long as the law under the military is in force; but whenever the law ceases to be operative, the President alone can change the place of confinement, mitigate or remit the sentence."

Gen. Grant having been informed of preparations being made in this city to tender him a popular reception on his return, has written to friends in Washington, expressing cordial thanks for the evidence of their esteem on the part of the citizens, but at the same time expressing a preference that no demonstration be made immediately on his arrival. The General could not say when he could reach Washington. It is probable the public reception will be deferred until he recovers from the fatigue and discomfort incidental to travel, and becomes comfortably located at home.

The President has proclaimed a treaty between the United States and King of Italy for the surrender by each of the contracting parties of persons who shall have been convicted or charged with crimes other than of a political character. The treaty continues in force five years.

Secretary Seward has returned to Washington.

MISSOURI.

ST. LOUIS, November 6.—The Republican publishes a table which shows a Democratic majority in twenty-seven counties of 7825, a Democratic gain of 7547, and in thirty-two other counties a Republican majority of 13 359, a gain of 5030; giving a net Democratic gain in fifty-nine counties of 2517. The Democrat claims a Radical gain of over 2000 in fifty-six counties. The returns strongly indicate the election of four Congressmen, Democratic. The First, Sixth and Ninth Districts, if correct, being gains. In the Third District, McCormick, Democrat, will be re-elected.

Gov. Crawford, of Kansas, has resigned and been commissioned Colonel of the regiment of cavalry raised for the State for service against the Indians. The Lieutenant Governor will act as Governor during the remainder of the term.

NORTH CAROLINA.

RALEIGH, November 6.—Election returns as yet are very incomplete, and it is impossible to say with certainty which way the State has gone. The general opinion is that it has gone for Grant by a majority of about 5000. Returns indicate the election to Congress of Cobb in the First District, Heiden in the Second, Dewes in the Fourteenth, Nash in the Fifteenth, all Republicans; also the election of Schoeber in the Sixth, Durham in the Seventh and probably McRoy, Democrat, in the Third District.

CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 5.—Slight earthquakes have occurred almost daily since October 21st. Last night at nine o'clock, there was a sharp shock, lasting twelve seconds, which created considerable alarm among the people, but did no damage to property.

Total vote of Sacramento, 25,700—the largest vote ever polled. Democratic majority, 1313.

NASHVILLE.

NASHVILLE, November 6.—R R. Butler, Horace Maynard, W. B. Stokes, S. R. Arnett, W. F. Prosser and J. R. Hawkins, Republicans, are elected to Congress from Tennessee. A dispatch from Shelbyville this evening says Sheafe, Democrat, is certainly elected in the Fourth district, by several hundred majority. Republicans await official returns to determine the result of the Memphis district, still in doubt.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

CINCINNATI, November 6.—The river has risen four feet eight inches—thirteen feet nine inches in the channel.

LOUISVILLE, November 6.—The river is rising, with four feet water in the canal by the mark. The weather is clear and pleasant.

ST. LOUIS, November 6.—The river is at a stand.

CAIRO, November 6.—The City of Alton passed down at 8 p.m; Empire, 8 a.m.; Bismarck, 2 p.m.; Rubicon, 5 p.m. Passed up—Minnie, 3 a.m.; Carroll, 3 a.m.; Clifton, 5 p.m.

The river rose two inches.

FLORIDA.

TALLAHASSEE, November 6.—Hon. Harrison Reed, Governor of the State, was impeached with high crimes and misdemeanors in office. Charges were preferred by Horatio Jenks, President of the late Constitutional Convention. Three-fourths of the members present voted in the affirmative. All the members were not in attendance. Gov. Reed will contest the case. His friends claim that the Legislative body in session is illegal. The Legislature may adjourn to-morrow.

MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, November 6.—The split in the Republican party resulted in the defeat of Donnelly and the election of Wilson, Democrat, for Congress.

The State gives 12,000 Republican majority. Negro suffrage was carried by 6000 majority.

GEORGIA.

AUGUSTA, Nov. 6.—Seventy counties give a Democratic majority of over 30,000.

SAVANNAH, November 6.—The city has been perfectly quiet to-day.

FOREIGN.

NEW YORK, November 6.—A Havana letter states that on the 29th ultimo the Captain General received instructions from the Provisional Government to inaugurate in Cuba such reforms as had been adopted in Spain. Lersundi, up to the 31st, had kept the dispatch as secret as possible. Numerous arrests are being made, the prisoners in most cases being supporters of the revolutionists in Spain. It was stated that Lersundi contemplates leaving the island for New York. The details of the fighting leads to the conclusion that the insurgents are brave and determined. They are said to number five thousand, and are favorable to independence or annexation with the United States. That place is still under martial law, and sentries about the streets have orders to challenge all passengers, and to fire upon them if the answer is not satisfactory.

The local and national authorities in the State of Cudiaramarca are at loggerheads with one another, and the State is in an anarchical condition in consequence.

A Hong Kong letter of September 16th states that two women and seventeen children were burned to death in a large fire in August. An American seaman was on trial for killing a Chinese boatman, while the latter was selling liquor to his men. Considerable excitement was caused by a British gunboat bombarding Chacahi.

A Madrid special says the Spanish army is to be reorganized, and a national guard formed in all the provinces. The provincial juntas, or conventions, have dissolved themselves of their own accord. In nearly all the great centers they have been replaced. Elected by universal suffrage, they have immediately proceeded to reorganize the government of cities and villages. The Protestants of Madrid have demanded and obtained permission to build a chapel at Madrid. Gen. Dulce has refused to accept the title of Duke given to him by the Provisional Government.

A Lisbon special says a majority of the Portuguese are opposed to Spanish annexation. The forts of the country are being refitted.

LONDON, November 6.—The Standard, Conservative organ, ascribed the disparagement of Reverdy Johnson by the Radicals here to his admiration of England.

Accounts are received to-day of a dreadful railway collision yesterday near New Hall, Wales. Several passengers were killed and many injured.

The Times to-day has an editorial on the result of the Alabama negotiations, which, it infers from the speech of the American Minister, have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion. It exults in the solution of the question, and praises Mr. Johnson not only for the frank and conciliatory manner in which he conducted this controversy, but for his manly and straightforward utterances in regard to the payment of the national debt. The Times declares that the tone in which Mr. Johnson repudiates tampering with the national credit as a fraud, shows that the higher class of American politicians recognize the same principles of morality which are current on this side of the Atlantic.

THE following bankrupts have been discharged since our last report: Louis Seligman, Jacob K. Franklin, John R. Patton, A. M. Bryan, W. G. Harding, A. H. Merril, J. L. Foote, M. N. Strickland, R. T. Wade, and Walt & Johnson.

WHO SUFFERS?—Diboll's Steam Laundry was robbed, on Thursday night, of over $200 worth of clothing. Entrance was made through a window, and the wretches, when they went away, carried the sash with them.

DANL. EARLE, charged with the murder of Rendelhuber on election day, was rearrested yesterday and carried before 'Squire Griffith, who again released him, this time on $2000 bonds, to answer next Monday for further examination.

JUST received, 50 dozen Alexander Kid Gloves, at $1 75 per pair, at Rice & Engel's, 233 Main street.

THE GARROTERS.—Bud Patton and Hans Margum, charged with having garroted a gentleman on Thursday night, at or near the bridge on Adams street, were yesterday brought before 'Squire Millard, who sent them both to the Criminal Court under $1000 bonds.

THE city paid twelve thousand and sixty-three dollars and ninety-one cents for paving last month—eleven thousand dollars and seventy-eight cents for Nicolson, and one thousand and sixty-three dollars and thirteen cents for stone pavement.

EVERY MAN has a right to say who shall work for him, and he is a coward or a fool if he does not exercise that right, and employ no man—laborer or professional man—who does not suit him, socially, morally, and politically. No man but a fool would give any employment to his enemy, and hereafter Southern people will be very apt to act on this principle. "A word to the wise."

FRESH OYSTERS.—J. D. Edwards & Co., No. 278 Second street, are daily receiving fresh oysters from Norfolk. They will sell oysters in any quantity from a pint to a barrel. Their prices defy competition, because they are reduced to a legitimate living rate. Oysters now are as cheap for family use as any article of food purchased. Call on them and satisfy yourselves. no3 1w

RETURNED.—We are pleased to note the return of Capt. Ed. Beasley, who, in company with his lovely bride, reached the city on the evening of the 5th inst. The happy couple were greeted in their new home by a number of friends who had gathered there to offer congratulations and drink to their future happiness. A delightful serenade ensued, after which the party dispersed—all impressed with the pleasantness of the affair.

PERSONAL.

Judge Reid, of Coahoma county, Miss., is in the city. He returns home this evening, on the Natoma.

"Darby Doyle," formerly of the Louisville Courier, arrived in the city yesterday, from Louisville, and goes to the Indian country of Western Arkansas.

MRS. THOMPSON'S BENEFIT.—The New Memphis was filled last night from pit to dome with the elite of our city, to honor the benefit night of Mrs. Thompson. The play for the occasion was London Assurance, with the full strength of the company in the cast, and never have we seen it put upon the boards in better style. Every part was well filled, and gave great satisfaction to the immense audience. We regret that space does not allow us to make a more extended notice of the parts. The play for to-night is Metamora.

THE DESOTO BOARDING AND LIVERY STABLE.—Mr. Joe Seligman, the most enterprising livery stable keeper in the city of Memphis, and who turns out one of the very finest "rigs" to be seen on the streets, has just purchased the large and commodious DeSoto stable, No. 55 Union street, which he has fitted up in first-class style as a livery and boarding stable. The buggy room is separate and fire-proof. Horses will be boarded cheaper than elsewhere. His old stable, corner Union and Third, will be reserved as a sale stable. 1w

WONDERS WILL NEVER CEASE.—In passing down Jefferson street we saw a big crowd standing at the Jefferson street market examining Charley Williams' fine Kentucky beef, which finer we never saw offered for sale in this market. We would advise all lovers of fine Kentucky beef to give Charley a call. This enormous animal was shipped to W. M. Brooks, of the Bluff City Stock Yard, and sold for $200. To all old bachelors that cannot take a fine roast or steak home to their wives, we would advise them to consult with the proprietors of the St. Charles restaurant, corner of Jefferson and Second streets, and they will find it served up to them in the finest style. Give Charley a call, you will find him there to please you all. Do not forget Nos. 66 and 68 Jefferson street.

CITY COUNCIL.

Monthly Meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen.

Dispatch of Business--Reports of Officers, Etc., Etc.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen assembled yesterday afternoon, according to adjournment, for the regular monthly meeting and dispatch of business.

At half-past two the roll was called and, a quorum being present, the Board was called to order and Alderman Swayne took the Chair.

On motion of Alderman Renner, the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting were dispensed with, and the Board proceeded to business.

The following message from the Mayor was read, and, on motion, received:

MESSAGE.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
MEMPHIS, TENN., November 6, 1868.

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen:

I herewith present a communication from the Hospital Physician, in which I concur, recommending the appointment of Frank W. Vigus, as Druggist for the City Hospital.

The City Recorder has given an opinion to the effect that the Board of Aldermen cannot legally prohibit the sale of fresh meats by those holding grocery store licenses, but that you have the right to regulate such sales and assess a license therefor. In justice to the butchers who have stalls in the market houses I would respectfully recommend that a tax of not less than the average tax of the meat stalls in the market houses be assessed on those who sell meats elsewhere, and that such meats be subject to the same inspection by the Market Masters as meats sold in the market houses. Much good seems to have been accomplished by the work recently done on the landing by the Wharfmaster, and to complete the same he asks authority, which I think ought to be granted, to employ seven carts and six men for the next month.

The Mayor or some member of the Board of Aldermen should be authorized to cast the vote of the city for Directors in the Memphis and Little Rock railroad, at the election to be held on the 10th instant.

So many and earnest are the complaints made relative to the occupation of the streets and grounds of the city for storage and other purposes, that I must respectfully ask for definite instructions relative thereto.

Very respectfully yours,
JOHN W. LEFTWICH,
Mayor.

The following reports of officers were read, and, on motion, received—to wit:

A communication was received from the City Attorney, R. J. Morgan, reporting on the cases referred to him during the past month. He recommends a reduction in the assessments of Mr. Sharp and W. R. Harris. In the case of Michael Hurley he recommends no discount. He recommends the payment of John Burke's account for 1867.

Dr. Erskine, Dean of the Faculty of the Medical College, reports expenditures of the City Dispensary, for the month, $228, and a balance in the treasury of $1. There were issued during the month four hundred gratis prescriptions to the poor, the character of diseases treated being chiefly intermittent and remittent fevers.

Robert Goode, Wharfmaster, reports $2,827 20 collected during the month.

Charles Borner, South Market Master, reports $356 50 collected during the month.

Peter Connelly, North Market Master, reports $390 collected.

J. L. Chandler, Tax Collector on Privileges, reports the collection for the month ending October 31st, at $16,195 33.

The City Engineer, J. H. Humphries, reports total expenses for the month $23,900 71, of which amount office expenses were $180 00; salaries $826 66; public cisterns $135 85; Front street bridge $8000; Beal street bridge $2369 20; streets and alleys $324 50; Nicholson pavement $11,000 78; stone pavement $1063 13.

Dr. Thornton, physician in charge of the City Hospital, reports:

No. of patients remaining at last report......	78
" " admitted during month......	66
" " treated	144
" " discharged " "	53
" " died " "	12
" " remaining October 31st......	79
The amount received from the "pay ward" and turned over to the City Treasurer by Hospital Steward was......	$14

In compliance with instructions from the chairman of the Hospital Committee, Dr. Thornton reports that he addressed a communication to the Board of County Commissioners in reference to the removal of the four cases of insanity at present in this Hospital to the Insane Asylum at Nashville. To this communication Commissioner Merriman replied that the county will have to inquire of the Superintendent of the Insane Asylum at Nashville to know if any other persons can be accommodated in that institution; if no more can be accommodated, the Commissioners of the county can suggest no remedy; if they can be accommodated there the Commissioner will advise the Physician of the City Hospital.

R. D. Baugh, City Comptroller, reports $670,541 87 accounts debited.

The reports of standing committees being then in order, Alderman Passmore, of the Committee on Accounts, reported a list of bills and accounts for payment. Mr. John H. Bowen, Tax Collector, was allowed clerk hire for the month of October, by a vote of the Board.

On motion, the report of the Committee on Accounts was received, filed and the accounts allowed.

FINANCE.

Alderman McDavitt, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported that the bonds lately issued had been used in strict accordance with the ordinance creating them. That the amount sold is $709,500, which were disposed of at an average of sixty-two cents, under most depressing circumstances. The report concluded by saying, if the tax-payers and others indebted to the city would come forward and pay up, the finances of the city would now be in a flourishing condition, instead of being a borrower at ruinous rates.

ORDINANCE COMMITTEE.

Alderman Johnson, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, reported in regard to an ordinance passed at the last meeting of the Board, and referred to the Ordinance Committee, in regard to storing cotton, and other merchandise on the bluffs and on city property. The report states that the whole matter is covered by an ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen in December, 1866.

Alderman Ruffin asked to see the ordinance of December, 1866, and while the Secretary was engaged in looking it up, Alderman Passmore, in order to improve the time, introduced a motion that Aldermen Ruffin, Cartwright, O'Donnel, Brown and Wright be appointed a committee of five, to cast the vote of the city at the election for Directors of the Little Rock Railroad, which takes place on the 10th inst.

The motion was adopted, and on motion the Mayor was added to the committee.

Alderman Ruffin stated that he would dispense with seeing the ordinance, that the business of the Board might progress, and there being nothing further from the Ordinance Committee, the report of the Special Committee on the subject of the claim of the proprietor of the Overton Hotel on the Exchange property, and the demand for tearing down the Exchange Building, was presented, and on motion received without reading.

THE FIRE COMMITTEE

reported in favor of allowing several petitions referred to them at the last meeting, and the Board proceeded to consider which were next in order. Several unimportant ones were presented by the Aldermen of the First ward, all of which were referred to the proper committees.

Alderman Johnson presented a petition from J. E. Merriman, asking an abatement of $2000 in his taxes. Referred to the City Attorney and Tax Collector, with power to act.

By the same: A petition from J. J. Murphy for a refundment of taxes overpaid. Referred to Finance Committee.

By the same: A petition from the North Memphis Marketmaster asking for two gas lamps and a hitching post at the North market. Referred to the Market Committee.

By the same: Several petitions from other parties, of a trivial nature, which were referred to proper committees.

By the same: A petition of George R. Duncan for an abatement of $3000 in his taxes. Referred to the City Attorney.

Alderman Holst, of the Fire Committee, presented a petition from Mrs. Mary K. Shields, praying to be allowed to build a wooden house in fire limits, and moved that it be granted. Granted.

By the same: A petition from T. H. Duffin & Co., to be allowed to erect plugs and supply the central portion of the city, and other privileges, in return for which they will supply the city with water for fire and other purposes gratuitously. Referred to the Fire Committee.

Alderman Ruffin presented the report of the Board of Water Works Commissioners, accompanied with a petition for $2000 to pay for services rendered by engineers and other employees.

Moved by Alderman Ruffin that the report be received, and that the amount asked for be paid them.

Alderman McDavitt moved an amendment to the motion of Alderman Ruffin, that he (Alderman Ruffin) be required to place the money in the treasury to pay this $2000.

Alderman Ruffin said it was an honest debt, due mostly to poor boys, ill able to wait for it or be defrauded out of it. He hoped it would be granted.

Alderman McDavitt gave the board a talking to about their extravagant tendencies. He was horrified, he said, to see the amount of money which the city was spending. He was particularly astonished at the bills for paving.

Alderman Ruffin called the Alderman back to the subject from which he was wandering, and called for the question. The petition was then on motion received and granted.

By Alderman Ruffin, a petition from Col. Titus, requesting a share of the wharfage collected from his river front, the property of the city in front of his land having been washed away. Referred to the Landing Committee.

Alderman Passmore offered a petition from John W. Fowler and others, and moved its reference to the Improvement Committee. Several other petitions were also presented by the same, and were referred to the proper committees.

Alderman McDavitt presented a petition from the First Methodist Church, signed by S. H. Duncan and others, trustees, praying that the parsonage of that church be granted an immunity from taxation, alleging that other parsonages in the city are not taxed.

Received, and, on motion, the prayer was granted.

A petition of Mr. Folwell to have his tax assessment abated, led to a sharp debate. Alderman Passmore insisted that these petitions for abatement of taxes were all out of order, as the law explicitly sets forth that the Tax Collector shall advertise that all parties who are dissatisfied with their assessments shall come up and complain of them to him within thirty days. Parties delay and dilly-dally these thirty days away, and then come up boring and bothering this Board at every meeting, to make reductions on their assessments.

During the debate Aldermen Mageveny and Glancy both made charcteristic speeches.

Alderman Wright presented a petition from Milton P. Jarnigan and others, praying for a lease on the site of the old jail, on which to erect a building for a school and charitable purposes.

Referred to a special committee, consisting of Aldermen Wright, Cicalla, Ruffin, and the City Attorney, with power to act.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Passmore: That the Landing Committee be instructed to inquire by what authority Swanwick & Co., have fenced in and are now using a portion of the city Landing property. Adopted.

By the same: A resolution donating $200 to each ward for the benefit of the poor—one-half to be expended in fuel and the other half in provisions. Adopted.

By Alderman Lemon; Resolved, That the market hours be changed from and after the 16th inst., so that the markets shall open at 2 o'clock, p.m. and closing at 7 o'clock, p.m.

By Alderman Holst: Resolved, That the Fire Department be allowed $150 for the purchase of a horse. Adopted.

By Alderman Brown: Resolved, That two lamp posts be erected in front of the ladies' entrance of the Peabody Hotel. Adopted.

By Alderman Johnson: A preamble and resolutions in regard to the encroachments of the river on the Navy Yard property. Referred to a joint committee, consisting of the Improvement and Landing Committees and city Engineer.

By the same: A resolution to erect two lamp posts in front of the entrence of the Overton Hotel.

This led to a debate, in which Alderman Passmore offered a resolution in lieu of both resolutions, that they be allowed to erect the lamp posts, but to pay for them themselves. Alderman Passmore took the ground that the hotels were private property and the erection of lamp posts should be a private enterprise. In the debate Alderman Brown lost his temper and wanted to add churches to the motion in lieu. The matter was disposed of by referring to the Gas Committee.

After two or three unimportant resolutions, the Board adjourned.

IT is strange to see with what carelessness some invalids attend to their health. They will procure a box of Plantation Bitters, which ought to be used up in a month or six weeks, and upon inquiry it is found that they have used only two or three bottles. Some days they have used it according to directions, and others have not touched it. The whole trial has been irregular, and of course a less favorable result has come from their use. If it be true that "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well," how emphatically is it true in matters relating to the health. A few bottles of Plantation Bitters have often wrought wonders, while in other instances disease has only been subdued after weeks of resistance.

MEMPHIS AND SELMA R. R.

Report of Maj. Minor Merriwether, the Engineer.

Preliminary Surveys.

MEMPHIS, October 29, 1868.

Gen. N. B. Forrest, President Memphis, Holly Springs, Okolona and Selma Railroad:

General: I respectfully submit the following report upon the recent survey of that portion of the Memphis, Holly Springs, Okolona and Selma Railroad, from Memphis to Holly Springs:

To avoid future embarrassment in entering the city, and the selection of a depot, the initial point of the survey was made on the old LaGrange railroad, 1640 feet west of the northern gate of Elmwood Cemetery. This enables you to enter by the Memphis and Charleston road, the Mississippi and Tennessee road, or upon an independent line, passing north or south of the Cemetery, as circumstances may dictate.

From the initial point we pursue the line of the old LaGrange railroad to its intersection of the Memphis and Charleston road; thence with that road to Geo. Gill's; and thence on an air line S. 60° E. (magnetic course) to Holly Springs. The air line passes a few feet south of Ouinichette's; in front of Mrs. Thornton's; crosses the Hollyford road between Gilbert & Pointer; passes 150 feet back of Bethel's; crosses the Pigeon Roost road at the base of the hill, where it enters Nonconnah bottom, and crosses Nonconnah creek about 1000 feet above the turnpike bridge; passes about 400 feet north of Pierson's, and thence up the valley of a small tributary of Nonconnah, known as Holman's creek, passing 1000 feet south of Tom Holman, 400 feet south of James, about one half mile north of Travis. One mile beyond this the line crosses South Nonconnah and gradually diverging from the course of that stream, passes through the plantations of Howell and Ellis; between Featherston and Hart; about 800 feet south of Mrs. Harrison; and crosses the Mississippi line in Bradley's field, 15.47 miles from the beginning. Here it taps the headwaters of Camp creek, a tributary of Cold Water. Ascending this and passing near the residences of Ben Bowers and Dr. McGargo, it crosses the Olive Branch and Mt. Pleasant road 3½ miles east of Olive Branch. One mile further commences the descent to Cold Water, which is easily made down a small branch, directly in line. The line crosses Cold Water at Dotey's old mill (22.68 miles from beginning), passes three miles north of Byhalia, and after passing over two miles of somewhat broken country, falls into the valley of the north fork of Byhalia creek. Ascending this it passes about 500 feet north of Phil Raiford's, and attains the summit at Alfred Cannon's. Thence it passes about one-half mile north of Red Bank, over an elevated country, cutting numerous small tributaries of Cold Water, near their heads. The line crosses the Holly Springs and Byhalia road one-half mile east of Red Bank, and continues south of it at a distance of ¼ to ¾ of a mile, thence to Holly Springs. From Alfred Cannon's to Mrs. Martin's the line pursues very nearly the crest of the ridge dividing the waters of Red Bank creek and Pigeon Roost creek, which it descends to the western suburbs of the town, which it enters at the intersection of Hernando road with the west line of the corporation, 41.11 miles from the initial point. Thence the line passes nearly due east through the town to the Mississippi Central railroad depot, 42.56 miles from the beginning. For the information of those residing in the intermediate region, and who cannot consult the accompanying map, I have given a more minute description of the route of the air line than otherwise would have been necessary.

The profile of the first twenty-three miles from Memphis, extending across Cold Water, is remarkably easy, and no very heavy grading is encountered on any part of it excepting the eight miles next to Holly Springs, on portions of which some very heavy cuts and embankments occur. From Mrs. Martin's to Holly Springs, 2.7 miles, the air line is impracticable, but by a slight departure north, commencing three-fourths of a mile back of Mrs. Martin's and running on the ridge around the head of Pigeon Roost creek, and entering the town on the north, the cost may be very greatly reduced without any material increase of distance. The bridging of Nonconnah and Cold Water, the only streams worthy of note, will cost but little; 400 feet of ordinary pile trestle will be sufficient for either.

In the above estimate I have included nothing for right of way or depot grounds. Except within the immediate limits of the city of Memphis, it is presumed the land owners will gladly donate both.

The estimate for graduation is based on a maximum grade of 1 2 per 100 for the air line, and a roadway of 14 feet on embankment, with slopes of 1½ to 1, and a roadway of 18 feet in excavation, with slopes of ¾ to 1, except in a few of the heavy cuts near Holly Springs, where, on account of the greater predominance of a sandy material, I have estimated for a roadway of 19 feet, with slopes of 1 to 1. The maximum grade of most of the roads of this portion of the South is 1 per 100, but they employ 6° curves, and the resistance of a 1.2 grade on an air line will not be greater than a 1.0 grade on curves of that radius, taking the average speed of trains; while the wear of rail and machinery and the liability to accident will be much less. The Nashville and Chattanooga road uses a grade of 2 per 100, and the Baltimore and Ohio road uses 2.2. They carry heavy trains with perfect ease over these grades. Should the air line location be adopted, I would not hesitate to employ the 1 2 grade, as a very great saving in cost will be effected without impairing the capacity for transportation.

The estimate for shops and buildings is intended to cover those of cheap construction, such as will suffice till the road is completed and its business extended enough to justify the erection of larger and better. The estimate for machinery in the shop is for a few tools of best quality, embracing only those considered indispensable to the maintenance of its rolling stock till the business of the road becomes extended.

The equipment is limited to that required during the progress of construction and the subsequent conduct of a moderate business, and can be augmented as rapidly as the necessities of the road demand.

This estimate, $1,000,000, or about $22,675 per mile, will not appear large when it is remembered that the distance is only 44 09 miles, and that the same outfit in many particulars would answer for a road of double that length, reducing thereby the relative cost.

In addition to the survey which I stipulated to make, I made one of the Pigeon Roost road from Olive Branch to its intersection with the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, a distance of thirteen miles, and herewith submit a profile of it, showing the amount of excavation and embankment upon maximum grades of 1. per 100; the curvature required upon any other than an air line, precluding the use of the 1.2 grade. It will be seen upon a comparison of this profile with that of the air-line, for an equal distance from their point of divergence, that the amount of excavation and borrowed embankment on the Pigeon Roost exceeds that on the air-line by 147,000 cubic yards—the borrowed embankment being computed in both cases upon an extreme haul of 1500 feet. The black figures on the profile show the cubic yards of excavation or embankment in each cut or fill, and the red figures show the cubic yards of embankment to be borrowed without the limit of extreme haul. The accompanying map shows the relative position of the two lines.

While the air line is very favorable and presents many advantages, it is probable that one equally as cheap may be found passing in the vicinity of Olive Branch and Byhalia, and thence across to and up Redbank creek to the vicinity of Redbank store, where you strike the crest separating it from Cold Water. The people along this route seem very much alive to it, and doubtless would subscribe liberally; and since the amount of subscription must, in connection with the cost, determine the location, a thorough instrumental examination of this route should be made before the line is definitely located. The same causes may operate a change in the line north of Nonconnah, and determine you to enter Memphis by a line on the south side of Elmwood Cemetery, passing near the Female College. Both lines are worthy a careful examination.

The vital importance to Memphis of constructing this road to Selma; the immense advantages to be derived from a connection with the cotton and grain regions of Eastern Mississippi, the iron and coal regions of Alabama and the Atlantic seaboard and gulf at Savannah, Pensacola and Mobile, have been too well shown by others to require enforcement here; but of the local inducements for the construction of that portion from Memphis to Holly Springs, I will say a word. Nowhere within a radius of forty miles of Memphis is there a country more lovely or more inviting to the thrifty emigrant who desires a small farm with all the comforts of a nice home.

The climate is unsurpassed in the United States; the country healthy beyond comparison; high, undulating, possessing an abundance of good water and timber for all farm purposes, and a genial soil, capable of producing well almost everything in the range of agriculture and horticulture; it is the very country through which to build a road, and cut up into thousands of small farms to be owned by industrious, enterprising, laboring men and women, who will fill it with orchards and vineyards and gardens, and farms well stocked with horses, cows, sheep, pigs, fowls, and everything to sustain life in comfort. Such a road, with trains run to suit the convenience of the inhabitants, with moderate fares, would be a paying institution if never extended beyond Holly Springs.

In conclusion I desire to acknowledge the effective service rendered by Capt. H. N. Pharr and Capt. Ike Hood, in the prosecution of the survey, and to thank the other gentlemen of the party for the cheerfulness and alacrity with which each did his part.

Very respectfully, yours,
MINOR MERIWETHER.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, November 6, 1868.

FINANCE.

There is no diminution in the offerings of exchange, and our discount houses report an active money market. The bills taken at one bank, upon the East alone, have averaged $1[illegible],000 per day during the week, and when we state that there are two or three of our banks each of which do business to nearly the same amount, some estimate can be formed of the amount of exchange taken daily. Money is close, not only here but elsewhere. All the Eastern and Western cities are complaining of the stringency. The demand for exchange is very fair, and comes from all classes of the business community, but more especially from the dry goods dealers. Rates are steady. Eastern bills are taken at ¾ discount, and sold at par to ¼ discount as to amount. New Orleans sight is taken at ½ discount, and checking at par to ¼ premium.

Gold opened in New York to-day at 132¾, and at the close had advanced to 133½. We quote buying at New York rates. Selling at an advance of 1@2c.

City bonds are nominally unchanged. Brokers would sell at 53¾@54c, but want to buy at 53@53½c. There were no transactions.

City scrip is quiet. Dealers are generally well supplied and would not take any amount at over 78c, while 80c would possibly be paid for small pieces. Selling by brokers at 82@83c.

County warrants are firm, with no sales reported. Speculators buy at 64@65c. Selling at 66@68c in sums to suit.

Police and school scrip are unchanged since yesterday.

COTTON.

The Liverpool market was steady at the opening to-day; Uplands, 11¼d; Orleans, 11¾d, and was firm at 1:20 p.m. Sales 15,000 bales. Week's sales, 121,000 bales. Of this amount 27,000 were taken for export, and 26,000 by speculators. Stock, 426,000 bales, of which 48,000 is American. The New York market opened inactive, with prices drooping, but not quotably lower. At noon it was dull, and had declined; Low Middlings nominally, 24¾c; Uplands, 25c; Orleans, 25½c; Good Middlings, 26½c. At 2 p.m. the demand was moderate at unchanged prices. Sales, 1800 bales. No later dispatch received. In New Orleans at the opening the market was quiet but steady at 23¾c for Middlings.

Our market was quiet, with lighter sales than on any day during the week. The advices from the East depressed the market, which was not as good as yesterday by ¼@½c, although holders did not show any eagerness to make concessions. The stock is considerably reduced, and receipts are falling off instead of increasing as was anticipated by buyers, most of whom looked for a rush of the staple about this time. We predict, however, a long cotton season. Our planters have already sent forward nearly enough to pay their advances, and will, we think, send in the future only enough at a time to supply immediate wants, and should prices not go up we look for no increase in receipts during the season. The loss of much of the staple raised upon the Arkansas river will be seriously felt by this market during the season, and some prompt measures should be adopted to induce it to come here. We learn that cotton is now taken from that river to New Orleans at $2 50 per bale, while the same freight is charged to this point. This fact alone is enough to drive away the trade of that section, and it should be remedied immediately. We quote the market as follows:

Ordinary	21 @—
Good Ordinary	21½@—
Low Middlings	22 @—
Middlings	22½@—
Strict Middlings	23 @23½
Good Middlings	24 @—

TRADE.

Business to-day was active in all its various branches, and prices were firm. The rapid advance in meats has been a matter of no little astonishment to every one just on the eve of the new killing season, but it is not probable that prices will long remain as they are. We learn that planters are very generally engaged in sowing wheat. We hope that a large breadth of land will be devoted to this cereal, and that at least enough will be raised to supply our wants next season. It was supposed that the crop during the past season was a large one, but the result did not justify any such conclusion. Our mills had to cease grinding almost at the very commencement of the season. At least four times the area should be planted in order to supply the wants of our own section, and we sincerely trust that it will be done.

In 1866 we imported from Russia goods to the amount of 1,433,078 rubles, and in 1861 1,262,986 rubles. We exported to Russia in 1866 2,247,200 rubles, and in 1867 4,603,551 rubles, the chief increase in our exports being in cotton and petroleum, but enough of these to double the total. This amount is steadily increasing—in 1855 our imports from Russia were 25,000 rubles, and our exports to Russia only 145,000. The chief exports from Russia to the United States in 1867 were: Hemp, linen cloths, ropes and cables, horsehair, bristles, woods, sheet iron, wool, rags, flax, mats and Russia Leather. The chief imports from the United States in 1867 were: Cotton, petroleum, sugar, wines, apothecaries' materials, white resin, dyewoods, dye extracts, precious woods, machines, wrought iron work, clays.

The Missouri standard for a bushel of oats is 35 pounds; that of Illinois is 32 pounds to the bushel. The Board of Trade of St. Louis have recently adopted the Illinois standard, thus making the Illinois and St. Louis markets uniform.

The Chicago Pork Packers' Association has resolved that each packer shall hereafter brand his own name upon each barrel of mess pork, instead of the word "standard," as formerly. Hereafter those who pack bad meat will get the credit of it.

Northern India is again threatened with a famine that may revive the recent terrible scenes in Orissa, where two millions of people died of starvation. There was scarcely any hot weather in May and June, and the rains which began a month before the usual time, have done immense damage. The rice crops, including those which have been sown a second time, are ruined. Orissa, and all the district between Calcutta and the sea, have been deluged. Yet, while this superabundance of moisture has fallen on the coast, the central districts are suffering still more from drouth. The price of bread has greatly advanced already.

In lower Bengal the crops have suffered from too much rain, while up in Behar they are suffering from too little.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

MEMPHIS, November 7.—Weather warm and cloudy and our nights are quite cool. The river at this point varies very little, but is slowly receding—so slowly as barely to be noticeable. It is not less than twenty feet below high water mark. From this point to Cairo 6½ to 7 feet is found. Between Cairo and St. Louis 5½ feet is said to be the channel depth. The lower Ohio has 3½ feet to Portland, but the rise has reached that point, and an improvement may be looked for. The Courier, of Thursday, says: "The river rose one inch at this point yesterday, and was still rising slowly last evening, with three feet seven inches in the canal and one foot seven inches in the chute, and five feet large on Portland bar. The rise in the Allegheny has about run out, and the river at Pittsburg was reported falling at noon yesterday. The latest arrivals from the lower Ohio report the channel cutting out, with five feet at Flint island, three feet five inches at French island, and three feet six inches at Walker's bar.

Arrivals.

Steamer Sam Hale, Cincinnati.
" Cornelia, St. Louis.

Departures.

Steamer Cornelia, New Orleans.
" City of Cairo, St. Louis.
" Romeo, Evansville.
" Natoma, Friar's Point.
" Argos, St. Francis River.

In Port.

Darling, Sam Hale, Linton, Louisa, Agnes, Mayflower.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Cotton did not move as lively on the wharf yesterday as was expected, and we fear that some of our upward bound packets will leave to-morrow with less than they can carry.

Capt. Tom Bowman, of the Mollie Hambleton, left for Louisville yesterday to bring his new packet St. Francis over the falls on the present rise.

The new ferryboat of Capt. Mark Cheek will be ready for business on Sunday, and will make a trial trip to-day. She will no doubt prove a clipper.

Ben Clark has gone East on a trip of recreation, and will not assume his duties as Treasurer of the Packet Company at this point for some time yet. Meanwhile ex-Mayor Lofland fills the position.

Capt. John Adams has purchased the Guidon at St. Louis for $8000, and will put her in the Arkansas line.

The Mississippi is rising at St. Paul.

The Omaha line of packets will desert the Missouri and load at St. Louis in turn for New Orleans. The Columbian is the next one of this line down.

The elegant Rubicon will pass down to-day for Vicksburg and the bends. Capt. Wm. Blake is master, and Alf Grissom is clerk.

The Darling did not get away last night, but will leave at 5 p.m. this evening. She will not be delayed, as the Ohio is rising. Capt. Lew Kates is master, and Mr. Powe, a popular officer, is his clerk.

The Romeo left last night for Evansville with nearly 700 bales of cotton.

The Cornelia passed down last night. She found but five and a half feet water at Island 34.

The Agnes, Capt. Scott, will get away to-day for Louisville. She leaves at 5 p.m., and being light, will go through O. K.

The Belle Lee comes out of the Ohio flying light. She refuses freight.

The Argonaut has left Louisville for this port.

The Nick Longworth leaves Portland to-day for New Orleans.

The Norman is loading at Louisville for White river, and the Tempest has gone on the ways.

Capt. Irvine, of the Longworth, is at the St. Joseph Infirmary at Louisville. His health is very bad.

The Des Arc, Capt. Elliott, is the Monday packet for all points on White river, leaving promptly at 5 p.m. on that day.

The splendid City of Alton, with the clever and untiring Capt. Wm. Thompson on the roof, backs out to-day for Cairo and St. Louis. Jim White is her clerk. She makes all connections for points North and East.

Flem Calvert will make another shipment of cotton to Alaska in a few days, his last venture proving a success.

The levee near the St. Louis Wharfboat is rapidly caving away. Our city fathers should see to it immediately. A large piece has recently gone into the river, carrying paving stones along with it.

The U. S. mail packet Mayflower, Capt. Ashford, with Charley Smithers at the desk, leaves to-day for White river, making close connection with the Little Rock trains and with the Fairy Queen for points above. She is an elegant passenger steamer, and her table is unexceptionable, under the careful eyes of Wm. Griffith, her steward.

The Linton, Capt. Les Ware, will back out to-day for Louisville and all way landings. She has nearly a full cargo engaged.

The Louisa, Capt. Ballus, is now loading, and will leave for Cincinnati this evening. She is light and will go through easily.

A foolish rumor upon our streets yesterday about the steamer Mississippi, created some uneasiness. The party who started it had better keep dark. Should he be found there will be a funeral at his house.

The fine steamer Commercial came in yesterday so handsomely burnished up as hardly to be recognizable. She is now good as new and will make a splendid Vicksburg packet. She has been overhauled from pilot house to kelson, and the elegant furniture of the Rowena has been transferred to her, making her one of the best passenger packets on the river. We hope that our merchants will do all that lies in their power to support this packet, and we know that the planters in the bends will rejoice at her entrance into the trade. Capt. John J. Edson, her commander, has already established a reputation with them as a prompt and reliable officer. Jimmy Thompson, her chief clerk, as well as Aleck Waddell, his assistant, have legions of friends all along the river and will make the "old reliable" an institution of which any trade might be proud. The Commercial, always famous for good living, will still maintain her reputation on that score under the direction of Dan. Crutze, who has no superior on the river. She leaves to-day at 5 p.m. on her first trip.

The Ozark backs out on Monday for all points on the Arkansas river. Blasdell is her master.

John Shannon, a well-known Upper Mississippi river pilot, has been trundling a wheelbarrow at Dubuque against time. He walked and rolled the barrow a distance of four miles in forty-seven minutes, after betting that he could do it in one hour and ten minutes. John is one of the best pilots on the river, but has been out of a berth all summer.

A reward of $100 will be paid for such information as will lead to the name of the infamous scoundrel who started the report in our city yesterday concerning the steamer Mississippi.

They are building a boat at Pittsburg for some South American river. Our reputation in that country as boat builders will soon be ruined.

The New Jackson, with 500 bales of cotton, struck a rock and sunk in Flint river, Georgia, five miles below Newton, a few days ago.

Four hundred tons of iron have been recovered from the sunken wreck of the rebel ram Merrimac, in Norfolk harbor.

The United States Circuit Court of St Louis has ordered the steamer Great Republic to be sold, on twenty days' notice to be published in Cincinnati, Pittsburg and St. Louis, for one-half cash and balance in six months. There are a number of libels and petitions filed against her in that court.

WOLFE'S Schiedam Schnapps.

THE above Medicinal Beverage is manufactured by the proprietor, at his distillery, in Schiedam, Holland, expressly for medicinal use.

It is now some twenty years since the proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over three thousand letters from physicians, indorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.

It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic juniper-berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effect produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South, and Southwest are peculiarly liable—the SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS will be found absolutely infallible; while in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.
